Councilman Boland requested that the minutes be amended to substitute the following paragraph in lieu of the paragraph regarding his statement relative to the second reading of the proposed Chestnut-Liberty Street Historic District: "Councilman Tisdale said the majority of Asheville's citizens support historic districts. He said this is reflected in responses to Alternatives for Asheville questionnaires and also in the proposed districts for Biltmore Village and the downtown area. He said the designation of a historic district is also a useful tool to limit the urban sprawl from the central business district. He said it has been determined that a historic district will raise property values. He suggested that a forum be established to work out the active promotion of marketing of such areas".

Research of Greenville, South Carolina, conducted an independent demographic and economic impact survey during the festival. He said approximately $11.5 million was spent in Asheville during the festival at restaurants, hotels, gift shops, retail outlets, gas stations, and other businesses, in addition to the money spent at the festival itself. He said he felt the $11.5 million was a conservative figure. He said it was determined that 200,000 people attended the Bele Chere 1986 Festival. He said vendor revenues from Bele Chere totalled $176,636.00, and the City's 20% commission totalled $35,327.00. He said the survey, based on a sampling of 829 people who went to the festival, including responses from 640 residents who live in Western North Carolina areas, and 189 non-residents from 22 states. He said the survey showed the average person at Bele Chere spent $31.27 on souvenirs; $96.40 on lodging for those who obtained lodging; $23.64 on food; and $13.58 on gasoline. He said the average total expenditure was $54.46 for area residents, and $146.06 for non-residents. He said of the area residents surveyed, 94.4% said they will attend the festival next year, while 83.6% of the non-residents said they will return for Bele Chere 1987. He said the figures are above what was projected for Bele Chere 1986. He said he felt the survey should be used in a positive way to plan other festival events.

Jim Daniels thanked the 600 volunteers who worked for Bele Chere 1986, and for the City of Asheville's support.

ORDINANCE NO. 1611 - AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 30 OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF ASHEVILLE TO CREATE THE CHESTNUT-LIBERTY STREET AREA AS LOCAL HISTORIC DISTRICT

8. Consideration was given to the second reading of Ordinance No. 1611, an ordinance amending Chapter 30 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Asheville to create the Chestnut-Liberty Street Area as local historic District.

Mayor Bissette said this ordinance would designate the Chestnut-Liberty Street neighborhood as local historic district. Certificates of Appropriateness would be required by a property owner before any exterior rehabilitation or new construction can take place. At the August 12, 1986 meeting, a public hearing was held to consider a proposal by the Historic Resources Commission; however, this matter was remanded to the Historic Resources Commission to reconsider alternate plans that include a smaller area and different boundaries. The Historic Resources Commission has now presented Council with a revised proposal. This ordinance passed first reading at the September 30, 1986 meeting.

Mayor Bissette said this ordinance was previously read on first reading and would not be reread in its entirety unless there was a specific request to do so.

Ralph Bishop requested that the ordinance be read in its entirety.

Mayor Bissette and members of Council read the proposed ordinance in its entirety.

James Smith, of 90 North Liberty Street, showed a video of the Chestnut-Liberty Street area. He also spoke in opposition to the designation of the Chestnut-Liberty Street area as a local historic district.

Ann Cross, Orange Street, spoke in opposition to the proposed designation, and requested that her property be excluded from the historic district.

Judge Frank Parker, co-owner of property located at 95 Charlotte Street spoke in opposition to the proposed designation, and presented statistics showing that a substantial number of actual owners and residents in the area opposed the designation.

Paul Jones, President of the Asheville Board of Realtors, and resident of Black Mountain, said the Asheville Board of Realtors was approached by the Historic Resources Commission to present facts to the Board relative to the historic designation. He said Tom Stietler with the Historic Resources Commission and June Grant, a resident opposed to the designation, appeared before the Asheville Board of Realtors on October 6, 1986, to present all of the facts involved. He said after hearing the presentations, the Board was still in opposition to the proposed historic district.

Waylon Hampton, of 179 S. Liberty Street spoke in opposition to the proposed historic district, and asked that his property be excluded.

Ralph Bishop spoke in opposition to the ordinance.

Gary Lanning of 109 North Liberty Street spoke in opposition to the historic designation.

Bill Duckworth, Manager of property on Charlotte Street also spoke in opposition to the historic designation, and recommended that Council defer action on this ordinance for at least one or two years until a survey is taken in the Montford Historic District to determine its success. He said he felt like the next request for the Montford area would be for an urban redevelopment area.

Catherine Hunter of 160 East Chestnut Street spoke in support of the ordinance.

Tom Steitler, Chairman of the Historic Resources Commission spoke in support of the ordinance.

Betty Lawrence of 142 Hillside Street spoke in support of the ordinance. She said she did not feel a study or survey is needed in the Montford Historic District. She said the Montford area has proven to be successful as a historic district.

Annette Owenby of 30 East Chestnut Street said she felt there was no comparison with the Montford area and the Chestnut-Liberty area. She spoke in opposition to the proposed designation.

Jean Warner of North Liberty Street, speaking in support of the proposed ordinance, stated that the list of names presented by Judge Frank Parker was not accurate. She said information has been given to residents in the area which has been distorted and is frightening some residents.

Councilman Tisdale, speaking in support of the ordinance, said many commercial businesses have been successful in historic districts.

Councilman Michalove said he felt an additional cost would be involved in the Historic Resources Commission budget if the proposed ordinance is approved. He said Council had only approved the Historic Resources budget through October. He said he would agree to postpone action on the ordinance until a survey of the Montford Historic District is completed, and a decision as to funding for the Historic Resources Commission is made.

On a roll call vote of 4-3, Ordinance No. 1611 passed on second reading, with Councilman Boland, Councilman Tisdale, Councilman Price, and Vice-Mayor Frank voting "Aye", and Mayor Bisette, Councilman Michalove, and Councilman Bratton voting "no".
